

The Story

Please read the following story. It is a composite of several real incidents. When you are finished, you will be asked several questions about your views about what happened in the story.

Bruce and Jenny are college students, who know each other casually. One night about a month ago, they had sex. They didn't see much of each other after that, until a few nights ago. They met at a kegger - beer party. Jenny got extremely drunk, and Bruce escorted her back to her apartment. At Jenny's apartment, they kissed for a while, but then Jenny passed out drunk. At this point, Bruce partially removed her clothes and had sexual intercourse with her – to the point of ejaculating on her. He left shortly after while she was still unconscious. The next day, Jenny woke up with only vague, confused memories of the night's events. She called Bruce and asked if they had "done it" last night. He laughed and said, "of course, don't you remember how great it was?" At this point, Jenny became very upset and called you to tell you what happened.
